

Disability Inclusive Development Train-the-Trainers Intensive Workshop in Seoul, Korea 2019

Call for application – Deadline: 18 September 2019

The Korea Disabled People's Development Institute in collaboration with team members from Harvard Law School Project on Disability is pleased to announce the organization of a intensive workshop in Seoul between the 4th and 9th of November 2019.

The workshop aims to help young leaders in the disability sector, as well as development sector mainly from Asia and the Pacific region to build knowledge and skills in the area of disability inclusive development cooperation together with the tools to deliver participatory disability inclusive development workshops.

This workshop will address various topics including:

1. Using the CRPD as a framework for disability inclusive development
2. Facilitation tips for delivering accessible & participatory disability inclusive development workshops
3. Identifying risks to persons with disabilities in natural disaster and other humanitarian emergencies

How to apply?

We welcome 20 candidates from core partner countries for Korea's ODA policy, a particular attention will be shown to female candidates. Applications must include a CV and a cover letter in English, stating your interest in this workshop.

They must be sent to peace@koddi.or.kr and albireo719@koddi.or.kr before September 18th, 2019.

The language of the workshop will be English, only.